

A technical line drawing of a rectangular metal plate, likely a component for a machine. The plate features a grid of square and circular holes on its top surface. Along one of the long edges, there is a series of rectangular slots and circular holes, possibly for mounting or assembly. The drawing is a perspective view, showing the top and side of the plate.

